Decision final on class relocation

After months of debate between parents and school board members, the Haliburton County Board of Education has upheld its decision to move grade two students at the Victoria Street School to the Senior Elementary School next year.

The decision to carry on with plans for the move was made after a final meeting between parents and board members May 18. While the board has offered major concessions to facilitate the students, parents have argued that the move will be detrimental to the children's social and academic growth and are still not pleased with the decision.

According to Jane Heyes, chief spokesperson for the parents' group, the decision was made "against the majority of parents' feelings." "The board has asked for our support and given us a number of concessions; new playground equipment will be installed, the grade two music teacher Mr. Gliddon will continue to teach the children. Maybe we should be happy we got as much as we did, but I'm still not completely satisfied," Mrs. Heyes said during an interview with The Times Friday.

Heyes also said that the parents' group, although it's still concerned about the decision, is not sure of its next move on the issue: "We're sort of sitting on it right now; I'm not sure what we're going to do," she said.

The chairman of the Board of Education meanwhile, says the concessions made to parents are major ones and that the best interests of the children have been the foremost concern of the Board all along.

"After all the information came in, from the parents committee and the Dysart board members, we still felt that, for the benefit of the children, it was the best move," Cheryl Murdoch told The Times Friday. "It was a unanimous decision of the Board that the grade three classes should be relocated at the Senior Elementary School. The parents didn't have much to say," Murdoch added.

Murdoch also said that the Board has very accommodating to the demands of the parents: "The Board bent over backwards; there's been a lot of concessions made. The children are getting their own teachers; they'll have their music teacher and additional playground equipment." Murdoch added that the possible isolation of children at the new school, a fear expressed by the parents, will not be a concern: "There is really no danger of the children becoming an isolated group at the senior school. The current grade three classes of Victoria Street will be moving up, and almost 60 grade two students will move; almost half of the Victoria Street School will be there next year," Murdoch said.

The decision by the board puts an end to several months of discussions between board members and the parents of children to be affected by the move. The original decision to move the grade two students

Council refuses by-law request

The bid by Rockcliffe Hotel owner Dave Willis to have his business declared exempt from the municipal anti-noise by-law ended in failure Wednesday when the Anson, Hindon and Minden council voted unanimously to refuse his application.

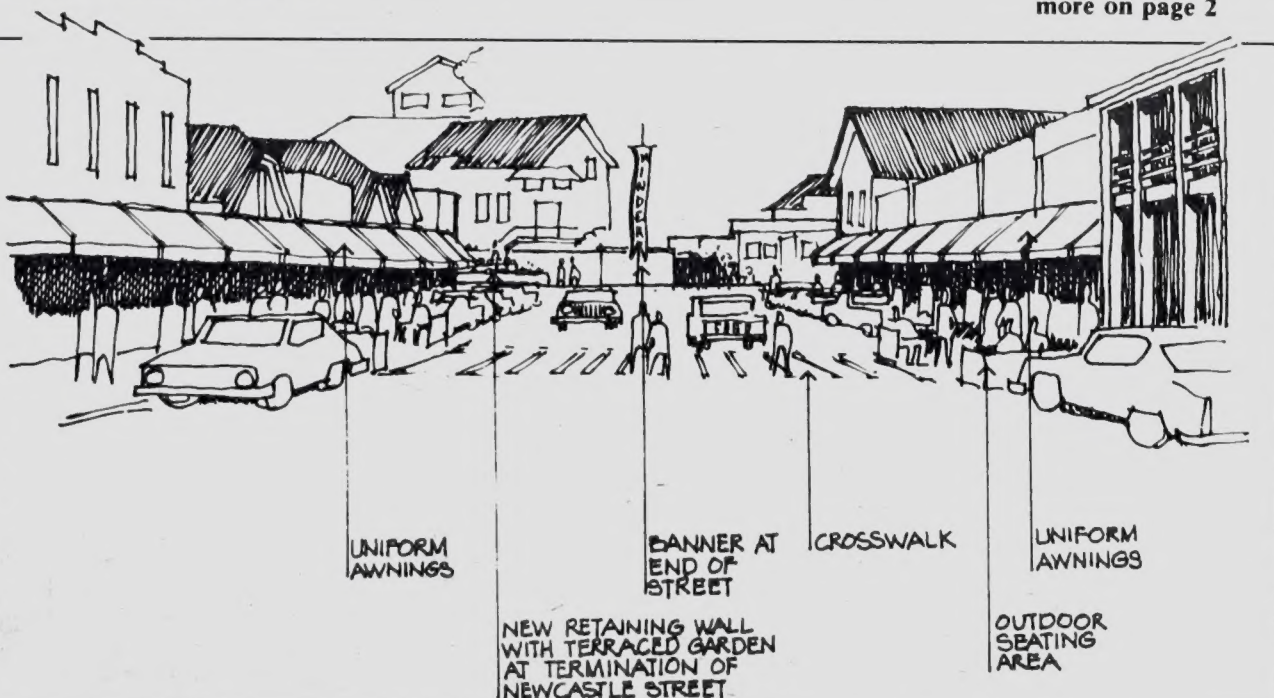

Councillors presented Willis with a list of 18 letters received by the municipality in regard to the noise issue at the Rockcliffe. Clerk-Treasurer Elinor Burke told Willis that the letters were either "out-right objections" to his proposal or requested council to give the matter "careful consideration". The municipality also received a 25-name petition concerning the application, which was advertised in The Times May 12, but Burke told the meeting that some objectors had sent letters and signed the petition as well.

The council's decision marked the end of a long battle between Willis and the municipality over noise levels at the Rockcliffe. Willis first applied for exemption to the anti-noise by-law in February of this year, after spending two years and nearly $5,000 in court costs defending the hotel against a charge laid by the municipality under the anti-noise by-law in June of 1979. The charge was eventually dismissed on a technicality, and Willis has since appeared at several council meetings this year to

CAUSE team finds hope for Minden's core

Six architects and architectural students took a very close look at Minden this past weekend and came up with a plan to make the downtown area a more pleasant place to shop and the two entrances to the community more attractive to passers-by. The CAUSE team, working with the special knowledge of an architect and an artists touch, closed streets, redirected traffic flow, widened sidewalks and gave the core area a more cohesive look, taking advantage of the natural beauty of the Gull River. One of the team's interpretive drawings can be seen at the right. For a more detailed look at the prescription for revitalization offered by the team, please turn to pages 10 and 11. An editorial comment can be found on page 4.

urge a decision on the anti-noise issue, but without success. According to Willis, the hotel could face criminal charges from the OPP if it is not granted permission to have music continue past the midnight curfew set down in the by-law.

Reeve Lloyd Walker told Willis at the Wednesday session that the council would have "a lot of names to buck" in granting the Rockcliffe exemption from the by-law. Councillor Ed Pergolas added, "No contest, Dave".

Councillors appeared reluctant, however, to refuse Willis' application. At one point during council's session with Willis, Walker suggested that Willis be given the chance to circulate a petition of his own in support of his application, but the idea met with no support from councillors. After a lengthy silence, councillor Ed Pergolas finally asked Walker if the council could "put Mr. Willis out of his misery" by making a decision. When no objections were raised, Walker declared a motion refusing the application passed.

After hearing of the letters and the petition, Willis argued to council that the 43 names represented only one per cent of the voting population. Pergolas countered, however, that the municipality had received no letters in support of Willis' idea.

Willis had sought to have the Rockcliffe declared traditional, a condition which exempts festivals such as the Kinsmen Winter Carnival and the Rotary Club's Octoberfest from the provisions of the by-law. Willis' initial attempt to have the by-law amended was refused by council earlier this year.

Classes will be moved to senior school

into grade three classes at the larger, more fully equipped school was made by the board in November last year. Parents responded to the decision by arguing that the proposed move would place the younger children in a stress situation at the senior school, while depriving them of special education programs at Victoria Street. The board, meanwhile, claimed that the move was necessitated by crowding at the Victoria Street School and excess of room at the newer school.

Both parents and board members agreed that crowding was a problem at the primary school, but parents expressed a suspicion that the board had tried to "railroad" the decision without adequate consideration of the effects of the move. A joint committee of parents and Dysart board members was then formed to investigate the repercussions of the move. After several visits to both schools and discussions with the principals, board members decided unanimously that the proposed move would go through.

Victoria Street principal Ruth Gorrie said after the announcement of the Board's decision that the move has been expected for a while. "We knew when we arrived at the school ten years ago that it would eventually close. It's better to keep the primary unit together, but since we'll be freeing up space at Victoria School I think its move is appropriate," Gorrie said Tuesday. "We're just preparing the children for the move now and we hope to make it as smooth as possible for them," Gorrie added.

Gorrie said the grade two students from Victoria Street will visit the Senior Elementary School in an Orientation Day program today. The 50 to 60 students will tour classrooms and facilities in preparation for this fall's move.

Council seeks control of village water system

Anson Hindon and Minden council is preparing to take control of the municipal water system in a move that is expected to save ratepayers roughly ten percent of operating costs.

Councillor Ed Pergolas, who has engineered plans to take over the administration of the system from the Ministry of the Environment, told council during a report last week that the system's operating deficit has already been reduced from $48,000 to $22,115 through various changes to the administration of the system, and he expects progress could move even faster.

"Initially we brought in a five year plan to eliminate the deficit but we're way ahead now; we have a lot tighter control," Pergolas said following Wednesday's meeting.

According to Pergolas, the municipal water system has up to now been administered by the MOE, a service for which the municipality has paid an administrative fee to the province. The MOE has also operated the municipality's contingency fund, a $33,000 account used to cover costs of emergency repairs. Pergolas says the municipality has received only 8 percent interest on the capital, but will now be able to invest the stand-by fund at standard interest rates once the municipality assumes control of the system.

Once the request for the change has been approved by the province, the MOE will relinquish administration of the system, with the exception of debenture payments still made by the municipality for the initial installation of the system.

Pergolas has also said that the proper management of the system has been responsible for the $18,000 reduction in the system's deficit. "We've adjusted the commercial rates last year to adopt the user pay system," Pergolas said. He added that people using the system prior to the adjustment of rates were getting the service "dirt cheap", regardless of the volume of water used. The municipality also applied part of the provincial government's unconditional grant to the water account.

The water system take over is similar to a plan being considered for the street lighting system in Minden. Pergolas has met with officials at Ontario Hydro in recent months to discuss the possibility of purchasing lights and standards in Minden currently owned by Hydro, a move expected to yield similar savings for the municipality.

This Rockcliffe Hustler hustled in vain...he was thrown out at first during the opening game of the tri-county men's softball league in Minden Wednesday. The Hustlers stopped the visiting Turbos of Lindsay 2-1 in a game that went eight innings.

Hustlers win opening game

The Rockcliffe Hotel Hustlers opened the season on a winning note Wednesday evening. The win against the Lindsay Turbos was not all that certain, however, as the game was forced into extra innings.

The Hustlers' effort was led by the home run of pitcher Jack Snell in the opening inning. In the second frame, Minden loaded the bases on hits by Dave Dollo, and Dave Hartwick and a walk to Colin Newell. The Hustlers were unable to capitalize on the situation however, as the Turbos closed the inning leaving the trio stranded.

Lindsay bounced back in the fourth frame on a single and home run which put the visitors ahead 2 - 1. Rick Hartwick evened the tally in the fifth inning with another single run homer.

The game ended with the teams locked in a 2 - 2 tie. Lindsay came on strong, putting two men on base in the top of the eighth, but they were left there as the side retired.

Dave Dollo and Dave Hartwick both picked up their second hits of the game in the bottom of the eighth. Pinch-hitter Gene Newell walked to fill the bases. Then Colin Newell stepped to the plate and banged a single up the centre to score the winning run.

Snell took the win while Bruce Simms was the losing pitcher.

The Hustlers play tonight (June 2) in Minden. They face Woodville. Game time is 8 p.m. The next game for the squad is June 9, again in Minden, when Bobcaygeon is in town.

Dump pond worries MOE

A small pond at the Scotch Line dump threatens to shorten the life span of the site and may create a buildup of toxic chemicals unless steps are taken to drain the water, says a spokesman for the Ministry of the Environment in Gravenhurst. Minden council is considering dynamite as a possible solution to the problem.

According to Don Grabowski, Environmental Officer for Haliburton County, the presence of surface water at the site threatens to increase the hazard of leachate, a mixture of chemicals that are "leached" out of wastes and soil at any land fill site through interaction of water and garbage. The Ministry has offered Minden council $800 towards the cost of blasting rock that prevents the drainage of the pond, an operation that the MOE estimates will cost $2,000 in total.

The drainage problem first arose last fall, when the MOE workers struck rock with a backhoe while attempting to dig a drainage ditch at the site. The municipality has since considered possible solutions to the problem, including filling the pond, but according to Grabowski, blasting is the best solution.

"Nobody knows for sure what it will take to get that rock out of there, but I don't think there is any way other than blasting," Grabowski said during an interview Friday. He added that while surface water has always existed at the site, some natural drainage of the area has been blocked by the operations of the dump. Grabowski did say, however, that the drainage problem did not represent any mismanagement by the municipality. "There may be problems if the dump is extended towards the pond much further. The pond should be drained away from the dump first," Grabowski said.

MOE studies at the site have shown that leachate is not presently a threat to the environment: "We've done extensive studies at the Scotch Line site, and we've determined that there is no problem with leachate now," Grabowski said Friday. He added that improving the drainage at the site would eliminate some of the leachate generated now.

The Ministry checks 15 different parameters when testing land fill sites for the presence of leachate. Nitrogen, sulphate, phosphorus, chloride, coliform bacteria and heavy metals including mercury are all tested in water samples. Chemicals can be drawn both from the garbage and from soil; the interaction of water and garbage, for example, lowers the PH of both surface and rain water, which in turn gives the water enough leaching power to draw iron out of soil.

The concentration of chemicals found in water at dump sites are checked against a provincial water quality objective set for each of the 15 parameters, to determine whether leachate levels are hazardous.

Ideas worth considering

Monday's presentation by the team of architects provided some intriguing proposals for the development of Minden. We were particularly pleased to see that many of the changes suggested by the experts could be carried out with relative ease and at a cost which would not put most of them beyond the reach of this municipality.

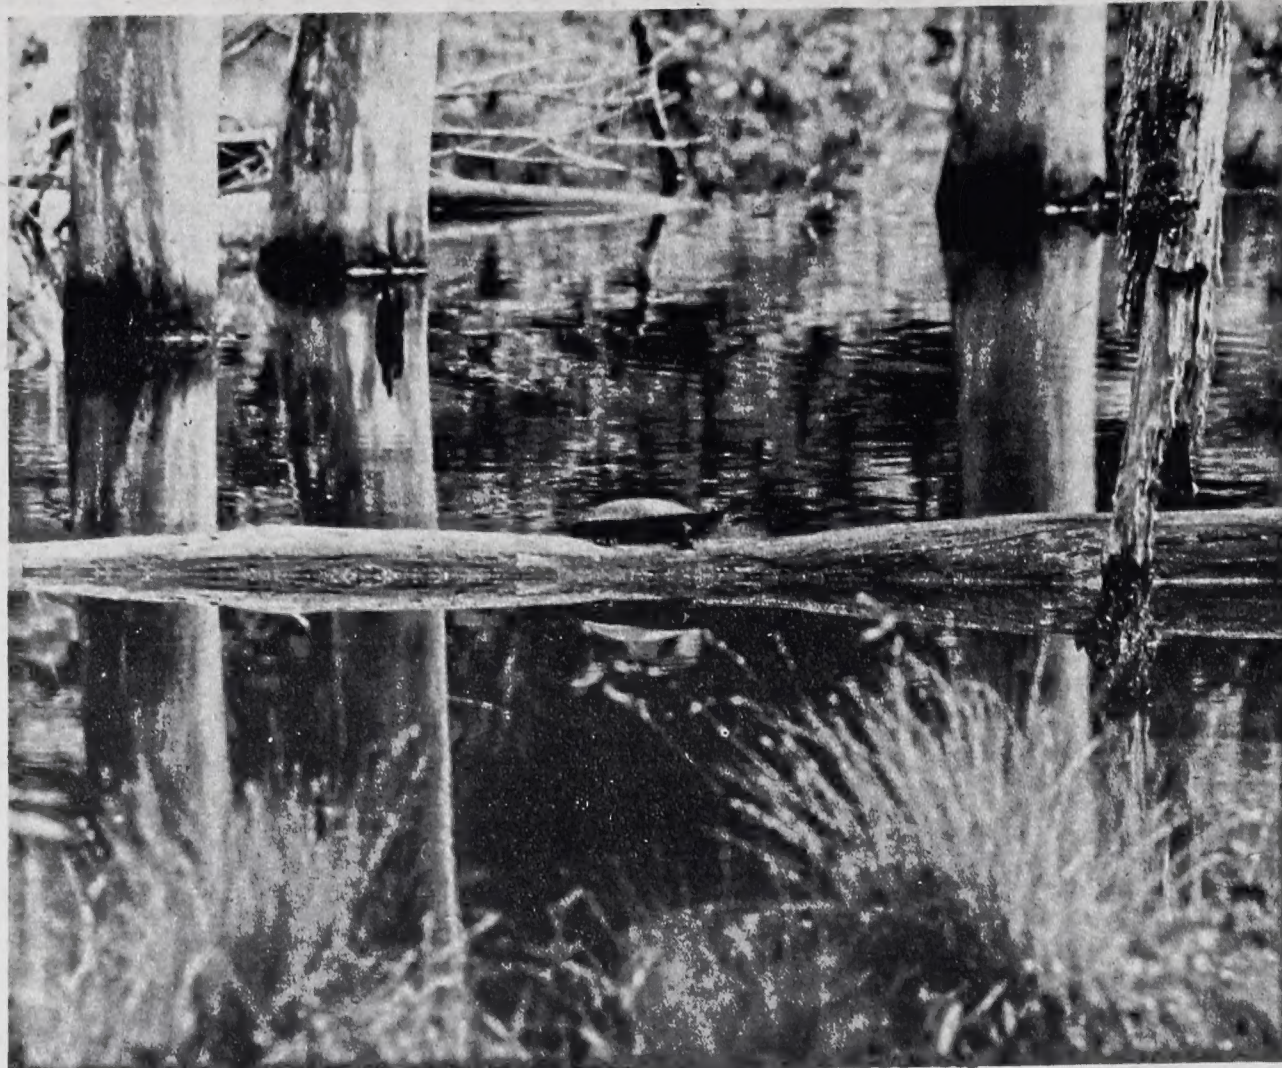

The report also pointed out a number of shortcomings in the operation of the municipality which should be considered soon. The architects noted that the municipality has spent very little for planning in the past. While it may be difficult, at times, to justify spending money to hire outside "experts" to assess a particular situation, there are often individuals with the knowledge, skills and background who could save the municipality far more than they cost.

The architects also noted the lack of an official plan has resulted in haphazard development in various parts of the community. Not having the document also means that many provincial grant programs cannot be tapped to their full potential. The municipality should have an official plan.

A suggestion was also made that one member of the municipal staff be appointed as a "provincial grant chaser." According to the architects, the municipality is not taking advantage of many programs which could be used to help with redevelopment.

The architects have provided an interesting visual insight into what Minden could be. That is what we expected of their visit. An added bonus of their study are the recommendations above, which are no less important in an overall strategy to ensure the continued growth and prosperity of the community.

To quote the report, "The possibility of implementing the recommendations is, we realize, closely related to the political, social and economic forces at work in Minden... An action strategy will have to be made by Minden. Obviously the B.I.A. can do little without the enthusiastic support of elected officials, municipal staff, and all the residents."

I am pleased that tenders have been called for resurfacing, grading, drainage, granular base and structure rehabilitation on Highway 35 from 3.7 miles north of Norland northerly to Highway 121 for 11.9 miles including two structures.

This project is for resurfacing this section of Highway 35 to current design standards. Included will be rehabilitation of the north and south Gull River structures and minor grading and paving work at the Minden patrol yard.

Tenders will be opened for this project at ministry head-

Sick Kids Hospital

Mr. Justice Charles Dubin of the Ontario Supreme Court has been appointed to head a review of procedures at the Hospital for Sick Children, in connection with the unexplained deaths of 43 babies in the hospital's cardiac ward between July 1980 and March 1981. There has been considerable pressure for a public inquiry into the matter.

Ontario Opposition members and top criminal lawyers have called for a royal commission into the deaths amid criticism of police investigation of the case. The "only way to salvage the reputation of a top hospital is to have a royal commission investigate," said Ontario Liberal Leader David Peterson.

Hydro's deal with G.P.U.

Ontario Hydro's $1 billion export deal with General Public Utilities of the U.S. will not go to a public hearing.

Conservative members of a legislature committee have defeated a move for such a public hearing into Ontario Hydro's plan to export $1 billion worth of electricity, voting against a motion introduced by Liberal Environment Critic Murray Elstone of Huron-Bruce. Hydro plans to sell 1.2 million kilowatt hours of power for 10 years, beginning in 1985 to General Public Utilities of New Jersey, and hopes to make $1 billion profit.

Opposition Members have been demanding an assessment of how much more acid rain pollution Hydro's plans will cause, in that it proposes to supply its U.S. customer with coal-generated electricity from its Nanicoke plant on Lake Erie, via a submarine cable.

Editor:

Although the Rockcliffe had to once again endure the boring vicious gossip from the idle mind, both at an open meeting and in the BIA questionnaires, I am writing to congratulate the management of the BIA and the initial redevelopment plan presented by the CAUSE members. Contrary to what has been said and written leading up to last weekend's study, the Rockcliffe is not responsible for ALL the problems in this community.

It was most interesting to attend the presentation of the architects and their ideas provided excellent food for thought.

It was even more interesting to note that the problems of Minden don't seem to affect the members of the council, with the exception of Mr. Pergolas. It was reward-

outdoors

by Ron Reid - Federation of Ontario Naturalists

How do you predict the benefits of a wilderness park? That's the question facing the residents of Armstrong, a town of 400 at the end of the road 300 km north of Thunder Bay, as they examine a proposed new wilderness park just west of their bounds.

At a recent public meeting in Armstrong, the priorities of this northern community were clear. Fresh from a series of lay-offs from the timber-cutting operations of the area, the first priority is jobs. Whether the proposed Ogoki-Albany wilderness would create new jobs or endanger existing ones forms the core of the debate in this case, and in others like it across Ontario wherever parks are created.

Like many northern communities, Armstrong depends on a limited range of industries - forestry and tourism forming the mainstay, with mining as a future potential. The new park would withdraw part of the surrounding area from logging and mining, and the companies involved have been doing their best to persuade local residents that the economic effects would be disastrous. Their arguments are blunted somewhat by the recurring pattern that plagues many small towns - resource industries that close down and pull out after only a few years when markets go soft or resources run dry.

Local tourist operators, on the other hand, have provided a stable long-term base, and they see a bright future if they can be accommodated within or near the new park. They can point to the Atikokan area, next to Quetico wilderness park, where park-related tourism adds over $2 million to the local economy each year. They can also point to numerous areas where the road access provided by forestry and mining operations has spelled the end for wilderness tourism.

The arguments are not unique to Armstrong; they are debated in other towns such as Red Lake, Killarney, or Temagami where the influence

Black Bear raises ruckus

Apart from the constant buzz of mosquitoes and the steady chirp of birds, the woods that line MNR roads in the Minden area are deep, lush and most of all, silent.

Last weekend, however, was a different story. 25 racing crews from Quebec and Ontario took their vehicles through 70 kilometres of competition rallying in Oakley, Hindon and Sherborne townships all day Saturday in this year's running of the Black Bear Rally.

Although results of the day's racing are not yet available, a substantial crowd braved swarming hordes of mosquitoes at two sites along the course to watch the action. A 90-degree turn down the MNR's Hindon Forest Road was lined with spectators watching the 23 rally cars negotiate the curve in close succession. The big attraction on Sherborne Lake Road was a series of three jumps that had cars airborne for several seconds as they topped a hill a few kilometres from Highway 35 near the Frost Centre.

Entrants began the day at the Minden arena, where entry forms were filled out and cars inspected to qualify for the three competitive classes, Production A (under 1600 cc), Production B (over 1600 cc) and the Open class. Production classes allow only slight modifications to stock cars, while in the open class anything goes. Japanese cars - Datsuns, Mazdas, Toyotas and Hondas - were the most popular cars in use Saturday. A Renault, a Saab, a Lada and a Dodge Colt were also entered.

The drivers competed against the clock through 7 different sections of the course. The first car left the arena at 2:01 p.m. Saturday and the event wound up at 9 p.m. with a reception and awards at the Wagon Wheel Motel and Restaurant. One service stop was held opposite the Frost Centre Saturday afternoon at 5.

Despite the fast pace of the sport, it takes a lot of patience to be a rally fan. Waiting in the woods Saturday afternoon, a group of forty spectators were on hand almost an hour early to watch the first car go through the ninety degree turn. The cars move in and out of sight in only 15 seconds, but during that time just as many shutters snap. It seems rallying is a shutterbug's delight and several imposing Nikons with motor drives gleamed out at the road from behind the safety of trees and rocks, during Saturday's running. On the Sherborne Lake stretch, meanwhile, photographers were stationed low in a ditch with roughly four seconds of high pitched engine whine to warn them of the approaching car. Staring through a lens at the crest of a hill fifteen feet away is ominous enough, but when an airborne Datsun fills the viewfinder at forty miles per hour, one wonders what price to pay for a dramatic photograph.

Organizers were pleased with both the turn out and the course for this year's rally. The Black Bear is the third this year to count towards the Eastern Canadian Rally Championship and the Ontario Performance Rally Championship, and while it was sponsored by Toronto's Maple Leaf Rally Club, entrants came from throughout Ontario and Quebec to compete.

Motorcyclist injured

A Parry Sound man was injured Sunday when his motorcycle left a curve in Haliburton Village and broke through a row of guard rails before coming to rest at the bottom of the embankment.

29 year old Michael Moloney was rounding a corner on Highway 118 Sunday morning at 11:40 near Lakeview School. His 1979 Yamaha failed to negotiate the curve and ended up in a grove of trees below the road. Moloney was taken to Haliburton Red Cross Hospital where he was found to have broken one leg and fractured the ankle of the other.

Moloney was charged by PC Bryan Bowers with speeding. His cycle received $3000 worth of damage in the crash.

Truck rolls

A 26 year old Kinmount woman received slight injuries when she rolled her Datsun pick-up on Highway 503 east of Kinmount Monday.

Sandy Barton lost control of the 1981 vehicle, which crossed the highway and struck a rock cut before rolling over. Barton was treated at the Minden Red Cross Hospital and later transferred to Oshawa General where her injuries were found to be not serious.

Barton was charged by Constable David Rogers with careless driving. Her Datsun is $9,000 worse for wear.

Smoking problem

Catherine Dawson had car problems of a different nature Thursday.

The 23 year old Eagle Lake resident was driving on Highway 519 in Guilford township when she noticed the cab of her 1978 Ford pick-up was filling with smoke. She parked the truck on the shoulder of the road and the engine promptly burst into flames, eventually engulfing the entire cab. Miss Dawson was not injured in the mishap, although the truck received $4000 in damages. The incident was investigated by Constable Wim Magee.

Laundromat burns

Authorities have not yet determined the cause of a fire that razed the Wilberforce laundromat Saturday night.

Owners Daniel and Arlene Mathews were attending the Wilberforce dance when the fire erupted.

The Monmouth fire department was on the scene but was unable to bring the flames under control.

Damage in the blaze has yet to be determined.

Fund to help servicemen

While the fighting in the South Atlantic may be far removed from the Haliburton Highlands, one local minister is eager to do something to help ease the suffering which British soldiers and their families must endure as a result of the conflict.

Reverend Douglas Miller has started a fund to assist the victims and their families in Great Britain. "I find this war and any conflict abhorrent," Reverend Miller commented, "but now that they are involved in the fighting, I feel something should be done for the families that will lose a father, or for the soldiers who return from the conflict injured."

Reverend Miller has contacted the British Consulate General in Toronto who has advised him that a fund similar to his is already in operation in Great Britain. Money collected locally will be sent to the British representative in Toronto to be added to the monies amassed in Great Britain.

Reverend Miller's target is to collect $1000 to help the British servicemen. "If I could find one hundred individuals to donate $10 each, I would reach the objective," he commented.

A special account (number 5529166) has been established by Reverend Miller and Lorne Coburn at the Minden Branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. Individuals wishing to make a donation to the collection effort can send their funds directly to Reverend Miller at Box 247, Minden, or take it to the bank for deposit in the account.

According to Reverend Miller donations have already been received from Mrs. Wanita Kimble, Mr. Holly Little, Mr. & Mrs. Fred Parker, Mr. & Mrs. Lorne Coburn, Mr. & Mrs. Cal Wilson, Mr. Charles Morrison, Reverend & Mrs. Miller, Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Beers and Mr. Gary Thurston.

But for most residents of affected communities, the benefits of a park are measured not in terms of wildlife saved, but rather of jobs and dollars created.

Margie's off to Toronto

Haliburton High athlete Margie Newton has qualified for the All Ontario track and field finals in the senior women's high jump. Newton came away with a fourth place finish in the regional finals held in Ottawa last week with a qualifying jump of 1.55 metres.

This year will be Newton's second at the Ontario finals. Last year she finished eighth in the province in senior girls high jump competition. Margie is the first student in the history of Haliburton High School to qualify for the Ontario finals twice and she is also the first girl ever to qualify from the school.

The Ottawa meet was marked by stiff competition between athletes from roughly 60 schools. Students from the Ottawa Valley, Eastern Ontario and Central Ontario all competed in the regional finals.

Several Haliburton High students turned in personal bests in the meet. Tim Davies of the senior boys team vaulted to a personal record of 3.15 metres in the senior boys' pole vault and Marilyn Walker placed sixth in Midget girls shot put with a toss of 8.71 metres. Marla MacNaull placed 8th in the Junior girls 400.

The open girls 1600 metre relay was run by Heidi Tashlin, Margie Newton, Eileen Henderson and Marla MacNaull, who together finished in a time of 4:22.6, the best run all season for the team.

Margie Newton now goes to Toronto Friday for the provincial showdown, to be held at Centennial Stadium in Etobicoke.

Guilford stands undefeated

West Guilford kept their unbeaten string alive last week as they defeated Haliburton 18 - 6 in one of six county ladies softball league games. Linda Sisson and Linda Morrison led the way for the Guilford team, each scoring four runs. Joan McKay was the winning pitcher while Miriam Smith was the loser.

In a classic confrontation, the Minden Juniors edged out the other Minden entry, Dixie Lee, in a close 17 - 16 game. The Juniors were led by Wendy Ballantyne and Dianne Petts. The Dixie Lee team found hitting strength from Marg Fielding and Jayne Symons. The winning pitcher was Cheryl Dillon while Nelda Cully took the loss.

The other Monday night contest from last week's schedule was moved to Thursday and played in Wilberforce. Carnarvon came up with its first win of the young season defeating their hosts 19 - 10. Carnarvon hitters Tracey Harrison and Lil Gorveatt were strong at the plate for their team while Lyn and Chris Storey led the Wilberforce scoring.

The Dixie Lee team entertained Haliburton Tuesday evening last week and came up with a 26 - 11 win. The Minden entry's effort was aided by the fourteen runs scored in the second inning. Lyn Winans and Barb Barnhart were strong for Minden while Wendy Roberts led the Haliburton effort. Nelda Cully and Ann Hewson were the winning pitchers for Minden.

West Guilford defeated Wilberforce 23 - 16 Tuesday evening. Bethany Woods and Gail Tisdale had several strong turns at bat for West Guilford. The winning pitcher was Joan McKay. Gail Rowbottom took the loss.

We have no score available but Minden Juniors defeated Carnarvon in a Tuesday night encounter.

Minden Lake Association holds annual meeting

The annual meeting of the Minden Lake Ratepayers Association was held May 22 at the Stanhope Community Centre.

The membership discussed a number of concerns during the evening gathering. They were advised that a formal objection had been filed to the Anson, Hindon and Minden amended zoning by-law. The association plans to have representatives appear at the Ontario Municipal Board hearing when the revised by-law is considered.

In particular, the association is seeking a clarification of the reasoning behind the creation of residential zones 4 and 5. There was also some question about the size of lots permitted in zone 3.

The members also considered the questionnaire circulated by the Minden Business Improvement Area. Members felt that parking and the condition of the downtown sidewalks were of greatest concern. The membership also expressed concern about the number of motorcycle gang members visiting the community during the Victoria Day weekend. "We do not want another Wasaga Beach here," a spokesman commented.

The association has been invited to send a tug-of-war team to the Stanhope Fun Days scheduled for July 24.

Prior to the close of the meeting a new executive for the coming year was elected. Wes Kent of Pickering was selected as the president. Other officers include George Winley vice president, Doreen Berry secretary, Stan Trevas treasurer and executive at large Chuck Thompson, Edna Moulton, Hope Jongmans, Marg Tulloch and Pat Ormsby.

Last year's president, Bern Berry of Toronto, declined to stand for office again this year. He is considering the possibility of seeking a seat on the municipal council.

The annual meeting closed with a dance attended by more than 120 individuals.

4 attend anti-nuclear meeting

Four Minden area representatives attended a special Peace Seminar at the Gryffin Lodge in Huntsville during the weekend. Included among those attending was Haliburton County Warden Ron Gambell, Sonya

Holliday-Rhodes, Dave Phillips and Ruth Chalk.

The weekend gathering was addressed by a number of speakers who outlined the political manoeuvring which has resulted in the present stand-off between eastern and western block countries, a clinical analysis of what will take place if, for example a one megaton atomic weapon was dropped over Toronto, an explanation of the hardware controlled and currently being built by the two opposing sides in the nuclear stand-off and a proposal for the dismantling of the forces which now face each other.

Close to 50 individuals attended the gathering which was hosted by Dr. Alcock and his wife who own the lodge. Dr. Alcock, a well-known proponent of nuclear disarmament was one of four speakers to address the group. Other speakers included Dr. Eric Letovsky and organizer with Physicians for Nuclear Responsibility; John Lamb, co-director of the Toronto

Arms Control Seminar Group; and Hanna Newcombe, president of the World Federalists of Canada.

According to Sonya Holliday-Rhodes, the gathering provided forum for exchange of ideas. "Those in attendance learned of the impact of the nuclear arms race in a clear and unemotional way, leaving little doubt in my mind that action is needed to reduce and eliminate the threat of nuclear arms to the world," she commented.

Sonya Holliday-Rhodes is one of a number of Highlands individuals who have spearheaded the formation of a local disarmament committee, known as People for Peace. The group plans a meeting for June 29 at the Minden council chambers.

Group plans June meeting

An organizational meeting for the Haliburton County group known as People for Peace will be held June 29 in Minden. The date of the gathering was set at a meeting Thursday evening when a number of interested citizens met at the home of Sonya Holliday-Rhodes of Minden.

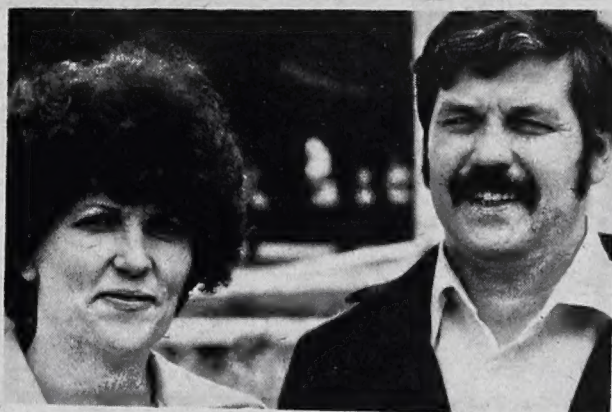

The group is one of a number that have been formed across Canada to advocate global nuclear disarmament. Similar organizations have been formed in Muskoka where municipal councils have agreed to, or are considering the possibility of, adding the disarmament referendum question to the 1982 municipal election ballot.

The guest speaker at the June 29 meeting is Norman Alcock, a former professor of strategic studies and outspoken proponent of nuclear disarmament. Mr. Alcock was once employed in the manufacture of the Candu nuclear reactor.

A film entitled, 'Hiroshima Revisited' will also be shown at the meeting. The movie graphically depicts the destruction and suffering which took place in the Japanese city of Hiroshima after the United States dropped an atomic weapon in August 1945.

The meeting will be held in the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council chambers beginning at 8 p.m. Posters, prepared by the Grade 8 class at Archie Stouffer Elementary School announcing the meeting, will be used to advertise the meeting.

Gunter and Helene Tragert of Pickering were enjoying a holiday in the Minden area a number of years ago. It was during that visit to the Highlands that the couple decided they would like to live here.

They started looking through the area for a business they could purchase and discover the Fireside Restaurant on Highway 35 was for sale.

In May their dreams were realized and they became the owners and operators of the restaurant.

In the past couple of weeks they have been busy preparing for the hectic summer season. While they have been familiar with the food service business, this is the first venture in the restaurant trade. They are ready to meet the tastes of their clientele and are reluctant to make any major changes to the menu at the establishment.

"We want to serve what people like," Gunter commented. "From time to time we'll try special dishes to see how they are accepted. If they are successful they could be incorporated into the regular menu."

One major change will see the restaurant open all year round.

Gunter and Helene have one son, Bernd, 17, who will be attending HHSS in September.

CAUSE team takes a look at

It seems people have been complaining about Minden for years. They've complained about the sidewalks, they've complained about street lighting and they've complained about shopping downtown.

Hiring a team of architects to iron out all the irksome idiosyncracies of what is nonetheless a well-loved town would at first appear to be a dream solution for a tourist town stuck in idle, but for Minden just such a dream came true this week.

After four days of living and working in the heart of Minden, four architects and two students have come up with proposals to change the face of Minden to reflect the lively spirit that underlies it.

The six man team is part of CAUSE, an acronym for Community Assist for an Urban Study Effort. The CAUSE program was developed by the Ontario Association of Architects two and a half years ago to offer the services of architects to communities needing help in design and planning strategies. The six experts in town last week worked entirely on a volunteer basis, with the BIA, the sponsor of the study, providing lodging, food and ancillary support. The end result, the final report, was presented Monday morning at the council chambers to a very interested group of residents and businessmen.

Community input is the key factor in the workings of the CAUSE team, and the group allowed ample opportunity for concerned citizens to offer their views on what's needed in Minden. After a public forum at the arena Thursday night, which produced proposals for everything from Minden as "Christmas Tree Town" to more familiar requests for improved roads and sidewalks, the six men - who had neither met one another before nor ever laid eyes on Minden - spent time with councillors, citizens and the concerned directors of the BIA. They gave careful reading to the 93 BIA questionnaires submitted to the group, weighed all the input of the public forum and reviewed the BIA's initial outline for improvements before sifting out a short list of priorities for the task of refurbishing the downtown core.

Methods and objectives

The team's methods and objectives were outlined to residents on the team's first day. Jack Klein, the Toronto architect and OAA representative who acted as chief spokesman for the CAUSE team during its four day stay, explained the group's approach at a public forum held at the community centre Thursday evening. "We don't know the community, we don't know each other. We're here in the most objective kind of way to do the best job we can. We hope to present a totally spontaneous and unprejudiced view of life in Minden; to offer broad brush solutions to large scale issues in a very fast and intensive piece of work."

Minden's CAUSE team was made up of Klein, Tim Fyles, a fifth year student of architecture at Carleton University; Glen Hadley, a senior partner with the Toronto firm of Rounthwaite, Dick & Hadley; Takvor Hopyan, a Turkish architect who heads his own firm in Toronto; Julian Jacobs, a Montrealer working independently in Toronto; Carl Knipfel, Director of Urban Design for Scarborough; and David Northcote, a fifth year student from the University of Waterloo.

The six men set up camp in the municipal council chambers and, fueled by one meal break each day and a constant supply of sandwiches, snacks and coffee, began the process of getting to the heart of Minden's woes.

Their method is anything but random. A weary but enthused Jack Klein explained it this way during a break from the intense productivity of the team's final day. "Our work process is one of familiarizing ourselves with the community and the issues that concern it. It's very much a logical, methodical approach to problem solving through issue identification and analysis." And there is definitely not one person making all final decisions, says Klein. "The CAUSE team's work is totally a group activity; this is democracy in its full flower."

The list of responses the architects gleaned from Mindenites is a lengthy one, and the proposals set out in the 50 page report revealed Monday are a synthesis of locals' concerns and the particular aesthetic vision of the team. Their recommendations represent a response to every facet of concerns about Minden's present and future, from the obvious need for beautification downtown to the broader issues of tourist promotion, business improvement and the zoning by-law.

A civic space

The tangible results are the CAUSE team's suggestions for beautifying the downtown core. The report is very direct in naming its "highest priority recommendation": a major park for the river bank in front of the Post Office. At its most lavish, the plan calls for a swimming pool for children south of the bridge and a swimming deck for adults on the north side, but even the basics - walkways, planters, new trees - represent a project of vast potential for tying the downtown core to the river and creating a civic "centre" for the village.

As Julian Jacobs explained to Monday's gathering, "Every city should have one plaza, one central 'civic space': we're suggesting this one for Minden."

While the new park would necessitate the closure of South Water Street from Main Street to the intersection of Milne and Prince, a similar strategy was proposed to bring new life to the other end of Main Street. Closing Newcastle Street at Main, the architects found, would allow for the establishment of a terraced civic garden. This plan opens the door on a number of landscaping possibilities, including seating, extensive planting, fountains, terraces, sculpture and public information displays.

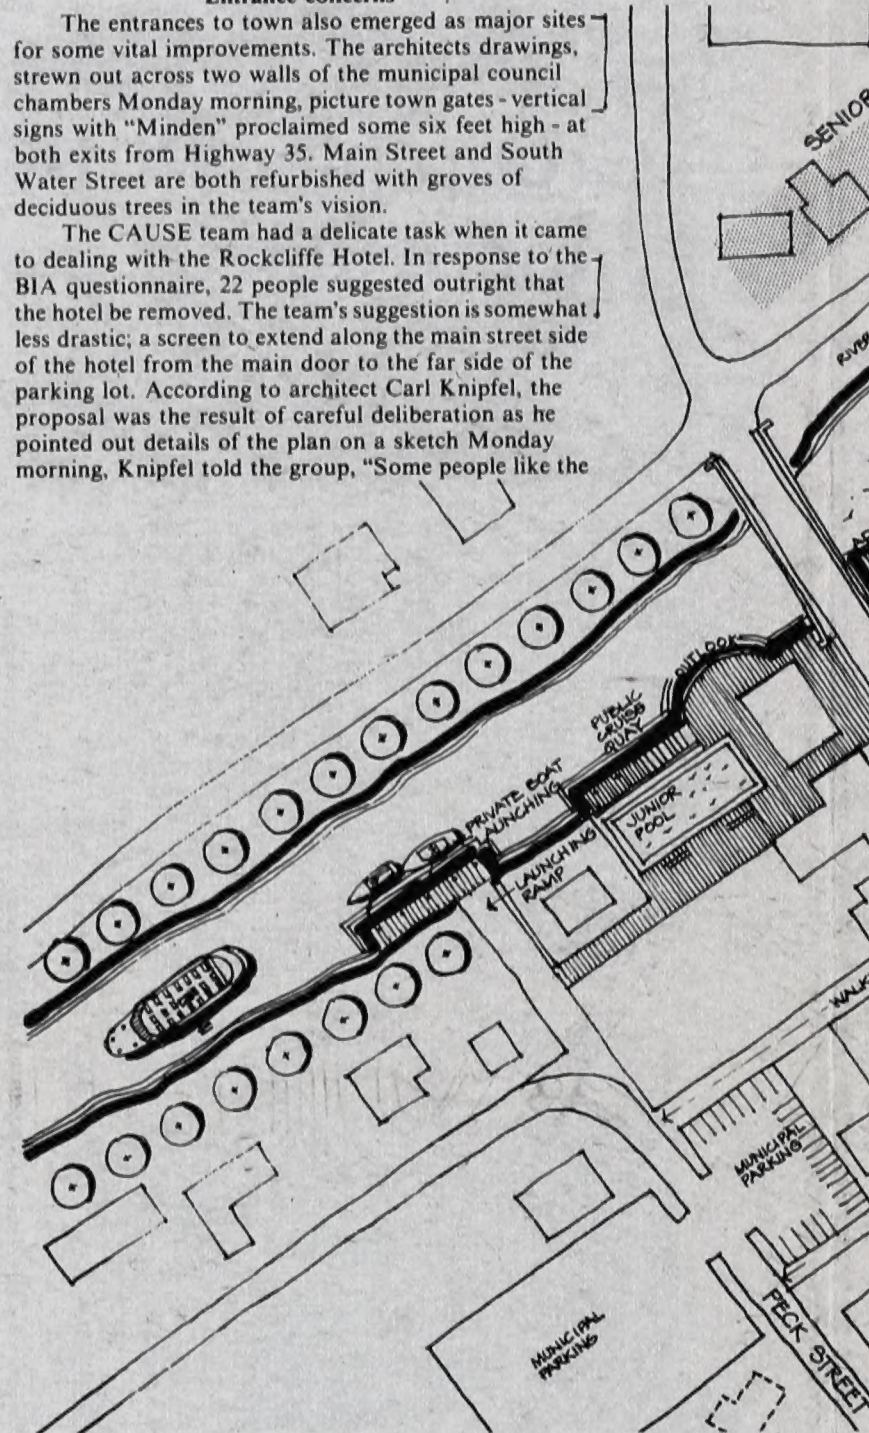

As for the downtown, there are no shortages of suggestions for beautifying the Main Street. The architects suggest narrowing Main Street to allow for seating areas and planters. The idea of seating areas projecting onto the main street met with opposition from County Engineer Bill Obee at the Thursday public forum, before it was even introduced, but the team noted in its report that difficulties with snow plowing that would result could be handled "with only a small fraction of the energy that will be required of citizens and merchants if they are serious about making Minden as vital as some other tourist towns in the province. The proposal is undoubtedly an attractive one, but when it comes to coping with the realities of Minden winters, it definitely treads the fine line between form and function.

Entrance concerns

The entrances to town also emerged as major sites for some vital improvements. The architects drawings, strewn out across two walls of the municipal council chambers Monday morning, picture town gates - vertical signs with "Minden" proclaimed some six feet high - at both exits from Highway 35. Main Street and South Water Street are both refurbished with groves of deciduous trees in the team's vision.

The CAUSE team had a delicate task when it came to dealing with the Rockcliffe Hotel. In response to the BIA questionnaire, 22 people suggested outright that the hotel be removed. The team's suggestion is somewhat less drastic; a screen to extend along the main street side of the hotel from the main door to the far side of the parking lot. According to architect Carl Knipfel, the proposal was the result of careful deliberation as he pointed out details of the plan on a sketch Monday morning, Knipfel told the group, "Some people like the

What was

The following are recommendations, in point form, offered by the CAUSE team of architects who visited Minden this past weekend.

- improve off-street parking and improve the identification of parking areas.
- install parking meters on Main Street and ensure adequate enforcement of parking regulations.
- improve existing pedestrian laneways between Main Street and parking areas behind the stores.
- name the large hill in the centre of the community Mount Minden and change zoning for the area to promote such uses as hotel, canoe museum and other public ventures.
- change the two main highway entrances with banner 'Minden' signs and trees lining the route to make it more inviting for motorists.
- improve the grading and curve at the intersection of Main and Milne Street. Closing Newcastle Street just east of this intersection would facilitate the improved grading.
- in the closed area of Newcastle Street, a civic garden and pedestrian area be created. Terraced into the incline of the hill, it would still provide Rockcliffe, some people hate it. We did a lot of thinking about it and a lot of research in to it; we like it." Knipfel told the group that the screen would act as a visual enhancement while preventing the noise nuisance as well. Owner Dave Willis nodded his approval for the plan while considering sketches at the end of the CAUSE presentation.

Some of the recommendations in the CAUSE report imply short comings in municipal administration. As Knipfel pointed out during Monday's presentation, the municipality's expenditure on planning in 1979 totalled .0005 per cent of the total budget, the smallest amount he'd ever heard of; coming from a respected authority in the field of planning, the comment marks a dubious achievement for Minden. Knipfel went on to recommend that the municipality increase its spending on planning, and more importantly, that it move to bring in an official plan. The report cites the lack of an official plan as a stumbling block to progress. "...the absence of an official plan to guide private development and public works has prevented the town from realizing some of its potential."

The report also states that an official plan could increase the town's eligibility for government grants.

The architects even went as far as to recommend that the township appoint a municipal official to pursue grants and funding from various levels of government.

Mount Minden

Beneath the thick foliage that looms above the Rockcliffe, meanwhile, the team has found what they consider to be the most beautiful and forceful feature of the village; the hill they have named Mount Minden. The architects' report recommends unabashedly that the Kanawa Canoe Museum, the gem that many residents are dreaming may find a new home in Minden, be situated atop Mount Minden. The scheme is a bold one that might escape the reachings of an untrained imagination, but it testifies to the potential that could be realized in the village. And as far as architect Jack Klein is concerned, proposals such as these are within the grasp of any community, given the motivation.

Klein heads a firm of planners and architects in Toronto, and acted as the liaison between the village and the CAUSE team during its four day designing marathon. When asked the obvious layman's question - is there potential in Minden? - Klein responded with an articulate perspective on the workings of community improvement. "Potential is not a matter of economics, or anything else. Potential is buried in the cultural attitude of the community. Yes, there is physical potential here - I think the entire team would agree - but it takes motivation to develop. If, culturally, the community wants to take a step, then the community will step forward. And by culture I'm talking about a number of things. The potential, economic and social influences at work in Minden. But it's definitely up to the community to get down to the nitty gritty of implementation."

Klein's message is a strong one, and as vital to the community as the spirit brought out in the architects' sketches. The dreams of the CAUSE team reflect the dreams of Minden residents, and like all dreams they can dissipate in a cloud of hope or be grasped and made real. It's a matter of belief and commitment supported by hard work.

as recommended

ess to Newcastle street as well as an area for wer displays, fountains, benches, public infortion displays, etc.

- promote the use of land along North Water et for senior citizen housing, to provide easy ess to downtown. The main thrust of any zoning anges would be to encourage pedestrian use of in Street with auto related businesses (drive-in taurants, gas stations, etc.) along the highway pass.

- create a parking lot on the north side of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and close driveway which now emerges onto Main Street xt to the bank.

- the area west of the CIBC should not be ned into a downtown park as has been proposed it would conflict with other plans presented by CAUSE team.

- the municipality adopt and enforce a strong roperty standards by-law.

- the Rockcliffe Hotel is an asset to the munity but to eliminate some of the problems ociated with the hotel a noise and vision screen a presentable nature be constructed along the nt of the structure.

- a park be established in the area now occupied by South Water Street between Main Street and Milne Street, directly in front of the Post Office. This area would be closed to traffic and would become the community's civic square. (This suggestion received the highest priority from the planners.)

- Main Street be narrowed with the width of sidewalks being increased proportionately. Seating areas and permanent planters be installed along the sidewalks. A common awning joining all the businesses in the core area would add a feeling of "oneness" to the shopping area and provide shelter on rainy days.

- improvements needed to street lighting in the core.

- the municipality should spend more money in the core.

- an official plan would be an asset to the community.

- the municipality appoint a staff member to be responsible for obtaining information on all grant and assistance programs available from senior levels of government.

- greater effort be made to promote Minden, particularly in the winter months.

We were sorry to miss the service in the chapel Sunday night. We didn't like to tell our callers to go home. It didn't seem just right.

Monday, being a holiday, we had no Fun and Fitness, and not until Tuesday afternoon - three movies we did witness.

Tuesday morning Rev. John Smith of the Haliburton Baptist church took the service in the chapel here. He says he has been the minister there for twenty-five years. He took his text from the fifty-fifth chapter of Isaiah - "Seek ye the Lord while He may be found - call ye upon Him while He is near".

The Sydney Browns flew over to England for two weeks holidays. We kids have had a lot of fun, while they have been away. It is nice to have them back again. We will miss Sydney here to ask the blessing at lunch time, and bring a little cheer.

Tuesday night Payne, Deacon and Crowe came, as they have often before. They entertained us really well for one hour or more.

Wednesday afternoon the Coboconk Happy Wanderers wandered into Hyland Crest, and entertained us all so nice, and were our very welcome guests. They sang some good told time songs which were simply grand - like "Bless This House" and "He's got the whole world in his hands". We thank you for wandering in, and look forward to when you'll come wandering up this way, and wander in again.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of the Horticultural Society, this lovely May Day, put on the tea party, and also brought a lovely birthday cake for those who had birthday days in May.

We also planned a farewell party for Jerry McKelvey, who, by the way, is leaving us.

"Dear Jerry: since you have been with us for such a long time, we took up a collection and bought a beer stein. We also have some real ready dough, and we all are so sorry that you have to go. You've worked here for years - a jack-of-all-trades - got along real well, with especially the maids. We hope your new business will be a success, and with lots of customers you will be blessed. This is our wish from all here at the Crest."

A member of the Kinsman Club put on the Bingo here last night. They play the way they have been doing every Thursday night. We thank you for coming, and doing the job right.

'Twas sing-song time again

kinmount klippings

"Welcome to Kinmount" "All the best," "Good luck," "Nice to see new faces." These warm and friendly greetings have been extended to me over the past week from some of the residents in Kinmount.

Please let me introduce myself as the manageress of "TJ's," formerly the Kinmount Food Market and also your new resident reporter for The Times. I'm Jan Abela.

Although I have been a resident cottager for many years and know some of you, it will be a pleasure to meet the rest of the local people. Just drop in for a chat anytime.

A good friend and neighbour cottager, Aileen Field has taken on a new position at the Kinmount Legion. Cheers to Aileen!

I have been asked to make the following announcement regarding the Kinmount Playschool. It is operated under a co-op system where each mother takes her turn at supervising and leading the children in songs, storytimes, crafts, etc., to be held at the Kinmount Town Hall 2 days a week for 1 1/2 hours a day. If you are interested, please contact Chris Weerdenburg at 488-2114 or Michelle Barkwell at 488-2496.

this Friday afternoon. Our girls came one half hour early, to get away real soon. Grace Coburn lives across the way - Norma Barron lives in town. They always come each Friday, and never let us down. The country is so lovely since we got the rain. The grass that was turning really brown, is greening up again, and the nurses' flowers, for which they worked so hard, are coming on so blooming fast, they soon will fill the yard.

Lil Porter spent a few days in Oshawa visiting relatives then her son Bill and his wife Jean and family brought her home. Last weekend Lil had her granddaughter and fiancé for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stocks on a month's holiday from Sheffield, England, during which time they will be touring the United States and Canada, are presently visiting with Susan and Walter Perk of Lutterworth Estates. We wish them a very pleasant holiday.

Happy Birthday and many, many happy returns of the day to Laura Harris, Doris Craig's sister who celebrated her 90th birthday this past week, with not one, but two lovely parties. God bless you Laura.

Margaret and Sam Telford of Kinmount spent last weekend visiting with Glynne and Lyndie Lewis.

Major Terry Seeley, his wife Rita and sons Christopher and Sean of Oshawa were guests of Elsa Seuret at Gull Lake last week.

Phil and Florence Robinson and son Bradley visited Niagara Falls last week. They especially enjoyed the new foliage and the beautiful blossoms on the many fruit trees for which the Niagara area is famous.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. William Aelick (parents of Jim Aelick of Lutterworth Estates) who were feted at a lovely anniversary party by family and friends on the occasion of their sixtieth wedding anniversary last week. I am happy to report that Jim, who was confined to Ross Memorial Hospital last week, is home and feeling much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker and Miss Diane Grevis of Bellwood, visited with Mrs. Verna Jarvis last week.

Mrs. Alice Todd spent last week in Toronto.

Lil Porter visited with her son Bill and family in Oshawa last week.

I am happy to report that Herb Hancock of the Sunrise Apartments is back home after a stay in Red Cross Hospital in Minden.

Unfortunately I was not able to attend the celebration held for my Aunt Ida Noice's 100th Birthday, at Sunnybrook Hospital last Wednesday, but my father Walter attended along with my cousin Doris Craig, Bill O'Brien of Lutterworth Estates, Ethel Leigh, Art and Belle Furney of Thorold, Mr. and Mrs. C. Strickland and son Calvin of Font Hill, Mrs. June Smith of Toronto and her two sons, and many dignitaries. She had a beautiful birthday cake and champagne was served. A number of nurses were in attendance, and the party was covered by the CBC. CBC Radio also gave her a lovely tribute on its radio station. Ida received citations from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, Alan Pearson, President of the Toronto Central Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, William Davis, Premier of Ontario, Mayor Lastman of the City of North York who was in attendance, John Bosley, M.P., William Scott, M.P. for Victoria-Haliburton, J.K. Morrison M.D., Executive Director Sunnybrook Medical Centre, Doris M. Harrison CDHS, Director of Volunteer Services, Joe Clark, P.C.M.P., Leader of the Opposition, Larry Keen, Provincial President of the Royal Canadian Legion, L.F. Koyl M.D., Senior Treatment Medical Officer Veterans Affairs and W. Bennett Campbell, Minister of Veterans Affairs, as well as many cards and messages from relatives and friends including one from William Noice, a nephew from Edmonton, Alberta. It was a truly memorable occasion.

Aileen and Stan Blears celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary at a large party held at Kenmar Lodge last Saturday evening. About ninety people were on hand to help them celebrate. A delicious roast beef dinner was served, followed by dancing. The tables were beautifully decorated; the centre of interest was a gorgeous bouquet of forty red roses. The happy couple were the victims of some good-natured roastings by friends and a very sweet and moving little speech by Aileen's mother. On Sunday morning, Aileen and Stan were busily preparing brunch for some of their overnight guests. I am sure everyone had a wonderful time. Our congratulations and best wishes to them both.

A new art exhibit featuring the paintings of Sue Tabuchi will open at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery on Thursday June 3 at 7:30 p.m. Thursday June 10, a reception will be held at which time refreshments will be served. Everyone is welcome to visit the new show.

A very happy birthday to Emma Stutt of the Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home who celebrates her birthday on Thursday, June 3.

Mrs. Rose Farr of Wilberforce and Mr. Murray Ackley of Minden are happy to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Cindy Rose to William Hogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hogg of Minden, on June 5, 1982, at 3:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Anglican Church in Minden. Dance to be held at Minden Arena at 8:30 p.m. All relatives and friends are welcome.

Congratulations and best wishes to Jim and Gladys Dugan on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Saturday, May 29.

I am sorry to report that Joyce Hewitt is presently confined to Red Cross Hospital in Minden. Best wishes for a speedy recovery, Joyce. We miss you.

It was decided at this meeting to make some revisions to our Snowdon Directory map and endeavor to have a second printing produced.

A decision was also made to contact the "Federation of Ontario Naturalists" and "Ducks Unlimited" in search of ideas and suggestions regarding our Wildlife Habitat plans.

A "Summer Canada Student Employment Programme 1982" Grant has been received by Snowdon Township. The objective of this grant is to further the work on the Community Park area. There will be three students employed for a period of ten weeks through the summer.

We feel it is fortunate this grant was received, considering the present cutbacks in funding.

Another flea market and auction is planned for Saturday, July 17, at the Lochlin Community Hall. This will be similar to the event held last year. More information will follow on this, meanwhile, remember the date, and to set aside any items you may wish to donate.

Our next get-together will be on Monday, June 7 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Smith, in Lochlin. As always, everyone is welcome.
